

intellifone

Answer your front door or security gate from the safety and convenience of any fixed or cordless phone in your house with an Intellifone System. An optional feature allows you to activate/unlock the front door or front gate*.

Conventional intercom is outdated technology. Consider the numerous advantages the intellifone has over conventional audio intercom:

- Low cabling and installation cost.
- No 'wall acne' caused by having too many devices located on your walls. One phone is multi functional and a designated intercom station is not required.
- Surface mount quality stainless steel door station, looks great on any style of home.
- Expandable up to the amount of data points included in your smart wire system.

- Existing phones can be used.
- Most cordless phones are compatible, allowing you to answer the door even in the spa, or backyard.
- Ringer unit lets you know you have a visitor at the door/gate while you're on the phone.
- Compatible with VOIP services.
- The Intellifone is compatible with non-smart wired homes.

Exclusions/Conditions:

No provision has been made for

- The supply of an automatic door lock, installation of that lock, and the running of cable within your door frame to the lock. These items would be organised with your door fixer or builder.
- The door phone system does not allow for communication between individual phone handsets – only between handsets and the front door.
- Some phones may not be able to ring with different tones to differentiate between a visitor at the door, or an incoming telephone call.
- Not all telephone handsets are compatible with the intellifone.

Video Door Phone

There is now no longer the need to compromise the safety and security of your home and family with an Intelligent Home Video Door Phone system designed to give you full communication capability with those at your front door.

The Intelligent Home Video Door Phone system, designed by Kocom, is a high quality 4 wire expandable system that features a doorbell and camera unit, with a built-in microphone and an easy to use internal video door phone unit, with a black and white video image monitor, so you can view and converse with anyone at the door without ever having to be seen.

When your visitor presses the outdoor button, a chime will ring and automatically activate a clear black and white image of your visitor on your monitor. If you wish to speak to them, simply press the button and begin talking. This smart unit provides effective two-way communication by establishing a person's identity and communicating with them before access to your home is gained. It really is the safest way to distinguish between actual visitors and unwanted callers to your home.

The Intelligent Home Video Door Phone system also enables you to activate the internal monitor at any time for visitors who knock on the door instead of pressing the doorbell. The monitor will display exactly who is at the front door by a single press of a button on your door phone unit. This is also a great security feature for investigating any strange outdoor noises that you may hear without having to step outside or be kept guessing what was going on.

Intelligent Home's Video Door Phone system is an ideal way to assist the protection of your family and home. A simple and reliable system that gives you peace of mind and total convenience.

Note: The external door station is NOT waterproof.
